

WINNER: ONE EARTH MUSIC AWARD (SEASON 11)

Genre: New Age Orchestral | Release: Fall 2026 | Press Kit

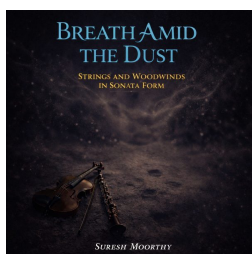

ABOUT THE ARTIST

Suresh Moorthy composes orchestral works that put Indian and Western classical structures on equal footing. He builds his pieces around a central melody first, letting the harmony take shape around it, a method drawn from Indian musical tradition rather than the usual chord-first approach. His writing owes a debt to Vangelis for its electronic, symphonic character, and to Miklós Rózsa for the way a single dramatic idea can shape an entire score. This approach earned him the One Earth Music Award (Season 11) for his work Earth in Heaven's Embrace.

His debut album, A Daylight Promise: A Symphonic Suite, is a six-movement work tracing a single arc, from the beginning of life through innocence, knowledge and change, to a final reconciliation. It sets sonata form and counterpoint against raga and tala, weaving the two traditions throughout.

Suresh is based in India, where he continues to write large-scale orchestral works in this vein.

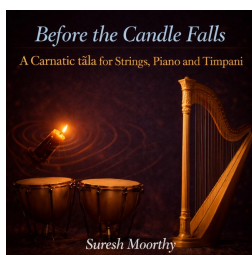

A DAYLIGHT PROMISE: A SYMPHONIC SUITE

First Movement: Breath Amid the Dust

Strings and woodwinds in sonata form, tracing the emergence of life in the world of matter.

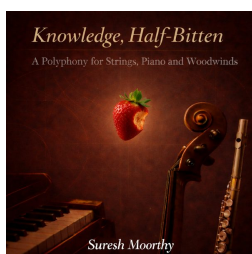

<https://youtu.be/Zh2teiPjWCA>

Second Movement: Before the Candle Falls

Strings, piano and timpani set in India's tala system, capturing innocence before it grows into experience.

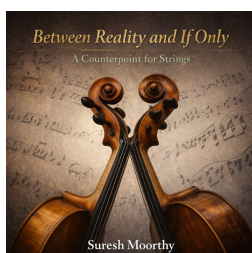

<https://youtu.be/HMPv6vjJx2Q>

Third Movement: Knowledge, Half-Bitten

A polyphony for strings, piano and woodwinds, showing how knowledge can obscure our true nature.

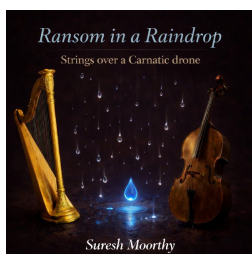

https://youtu.be/MS3V8D2_PA1

Fourth Movement: Between Reality and If Only

A counterpoint for strings, where today meets yesterday's folly.

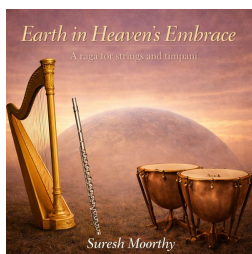

<https://youtu.be/Vbyn77FAokc>

Fifth Movement: Ransom in a Raindrop

Strings sustained over a Carnatic-inspired drone, illuminating the path forward amid mist and missteps.

<https://youtu.be/m5xvzdCktQ0>

Sixth Movement: Earth in Heaven's Embrace (Award Winner)

Strings and timpani, shaped by the raga system of India, foretelling the meeting of the high and the low.

<https://youtu.be/eThUNAyekfE>

CONNECT

YouTube Channel: youtube.com/@SureshScores

Press / Licensing / Booking: press@sureshscores.com